Rested Vikings back in action

Vernon Vikings, after a two-day rest, are back in action Saturday night when they host the Chilliwack Bruins.

Vikings had played six games in eight days prior to the two-day break, and according to Coach Joe Tennant, his club needs the rest.

Tennant said, "It showed in our game Wednesday against Merritt that the players were tired. The days off will give everyone a chance to rest the little hurts."

Vikings are also scheduled to travel to Kelowna Sunday to take on the Buckaroos.

One thing Tennant is very upset about is the local fan support.

He said, "Last year when we were losing, everyone said this city would support a winner. Now we're winning, and still not getting the support."

"I can't figure out what it is. We're playing fast, clean hockey and the stands are still empty."

At the last two home games, Vikings have drawn less than 500 fans, while on the road, Vernon attracts the largest crowds in visiting arenas.

Game time Saturday is 8 p.m.
