T-Bar
It's easy to ride
If you have never ridden one before, watch a few people before you try. Talk to the operator
Then slide into the lineup. This is no time to fall asleep!

POLES OUTSIDE
When the two skiers in front of you start up the hill, your partner steps right into the far side of the leading platform. Then you, beside him, your poles in the outside hand, pointed forward. Look to see the T-bar approach. When the operator places the 'T', it will pull you up the hill. Make that first ride with someone who has experience (and someone you think you'd like to talk to on the way to the hill).

NO STABBING
To unload, place your inside hand on the bar, let your skis slide out of the track and release the T-bar so that it winds freely back into place.
Great. The operator didn't get stabbed with your ski pole, you didn't sit down. It's all downhill from here.
