Three friends leading Doral Open Tournament

MIAMI (AP) — By a peculiar set of circumstances, the "Lennie, Brucie and Bennie act" was together again today.

That's the title Bruce Lietzke came up with — to the groans and grimaces of Ben Crenshaw and Leonard Thompson — when asked about that threesome's spectacular play in Friday's second round of the $250,000 Doral Open golf tournament.

Those three, close friends, had a total of 15 birdies and an eagle and had a best-ball of 13 under par in their threesome romp over the 7,065-yard Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club. Each shot 68 in the warm, windy weather.

It gave Thompson a share of the second-round lead at sevenunder-par 137. Lietzke was a shot back at 138 and Crenshaw was at 139.

"It was phenomenal," Thompson said. "We did make some birdies. It kind of caught on, was contagious. You knew if you went two holes without making birdie, you were going to be hitting last."

Due to their placings in the field, the three were scheduled to be play together again in the third round — an extremely unusual situation. "This was fun," said Lietzke. "We're looking forward to it again."

SHARES LEAD

Thompson shared the lead with Tommy Valentine, a career non-winner who had to survive a playoff in the qualifying round to gain the last spot in the field. Valentine didn't bogey in his second-round 69.

Lietzke was tied with Dave Eger, who also shot 69.

And Crenshaw, two back, was tied with Jack Nicklaus, England's Mark James and Danny Edwards. Edwards shot 68, James 69 and Nicklaus matched the best round of the day with a 67.

Nicklaus, attempting a comeback from the poorest season of his career, had reeled off 19 consecutive pars before he got it together on his back nine. He played that side in 31.

The two Canadians in the field were well back of the leaders. Dave Barr of Kelowna, B.C., fired a 71 for a two-day score of 146 whil Dan Halldorson of Shilo, Man., had his second straight 74 — 148 and missed the cut.

Final duel today

DORTMUND, West Germany (AP) — American figure skating star Linda Fratianne duelled with arch-rival Aneit Poetzsch of East Germany for the last time today.

Their free skating battle on the ice of the Westphalian Hall was to decide the 1980 women's world championship.

The 19-year-old Los Angeles skater is the defending champion but her dream of taking an Olympic gold medal was shattered by the East German last month at Lake Placid. Now she wants to get even before turning professional.

Fratianne goes into the climactic four-minute free skating program trailing her rival, as usual.

Poetzsch took a strong lead in the compulsories and stayed ahead despite a mediocre twominute program of required moves Friday with 10 ordinals and 86.28 points.
