Flames deny Calgary rumor

ATLANTA (AP) — A top official of Atlanta Flames denied a report Thursday that three Calgary businessmen have offered $14 million to buy the National Hockey League club.

"That is absolutely not true," said Bob Kent, the chief executive officer of the Flames. The Globe and Mail, said the Seaman brothers, Calgary businessmen, offered Flames owner Tom Cousins that amount for the club.

The newspaper said the offer came from the three brothers, who are major shareholders in Bow Valley Industries, an oil and gas company worth an estimated $170 million.

Cousins, an Atlanta developer, confirmed earlier in the week that he is looking for a buyer for the financially-troubled team, which has lost $2 million a year since its arrival in Atlanta seven years ago.

The newspaper quoted an unidentified NHL governor as saying Peter Pocklington, owner of Edmonton Oilers, has been involved in negotiations in a "peripheral sense."

Calgary has a 6,400-seat arena, but the city has commissioned a study on the feasibility of constructing a 16,000-seat arena. The report is expected within two weeks.

In an interview Wednesday with Edmonton Journal sports columnist Terry Jones, Byron Seaman said his brother Darryl (Doc) has been in Atlanta talking with Cousins for the last couple of days, "but it doesn't mean that an offer was made."

Byron Seaman said the $14-million report out of Toronto "is entirely erroneous."

"I wish people would quit speculating and leave people to do their business and wait to learn about it all after it's done. Some of the reports have been pure drivel."

Pocklington said he is not aware of any recent developments but believes a deal is close.

"It would do a great deal for Alberta. Edmonton fans went through a period of taking much delight at poking fun at Calgary for what we have in sports and what they don't have. But now people basically want the best possible thing for Calgary.

Pocklington said the Seamans have had access to figures of the Oilers operation and if an offer is made it would probably be based on the information of the Edmonton operation.

Watson shoots sparkling round

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — Tom Watson shot a seven-under-par 65 and missed the course record by a single stroke Thursday but he's looking for more at the $300,000 Tournament of Champions golf tournament here today.

"What I did was turn a 62 or 63 into a 65," Watson said. "I feel it could have been a very, very good round."

He one-putted 10 times and missed four other birdie opportunities from six-to-eight feet.

As the first man off the tee in the exclusive event that brings together only the winners of pro golf tour titles from the last 12 months, Watson got his score on the board first and forced the rest of the 30-man field into a catch-up position.

It produced some low scoring on the tough, 6,889-yard La Costa Country Club course.

Ray Floyd scored nine birdies and had a share of the lead until he drove into an unplayable lie and bogeyed the 18th hole.

He finished with a 66 that tied him with Lou Graham for second. Jim Colbert was next with a 67.

Three men making their first appearances in this event — Craig Stadler, Jeff Mitchell and Doug Tewell — followed at 69.

Skalbania buys junior franchise

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — Vancouver businessman Nelson Skalbania has purchased New Westminster Bruins of the Western Hockey League for an undisclosed sum, Ernie McLean, Bruins' coach and co-owner, announced Thursday.

The sale was approved by the league on Wednesday.

McLean said he now is considering a lucrative offer to coach in Japan as well as a full-time scouting job with Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League.

There were reports that the last-place Bruins franchise changed hands for about $300,000. McLean said the price was higher than that, but he would not give any figures.

Skalbania said he will keep the team in New Westminster, adding that it is conceivable McLean will remain as coach.

McLean and team general manager Bill Shinske, who each owned half of the Bruins, moved the team to New Westminster from Estevan, Sask. in 1971. The Bruins won four consecutive WHL titles and two Memorial Cups in the late 1970s amid criticism of the aggressive style McLean encouraged.

Skalbania, 42, bought and sold $600 million worth of real estate last year. He owned Indianapolis Racers of the defunct World Hockey Association, and also owned Edmonton Oilers.

"We're starting new, starting now."
Allan Whitehouse

Right up front, our goal is to become the best equipment distributor in the Province of British Columbia. That's no easy assignment, but we're committed. We've listened to your comments. We've learned from what you've had to say. And now, we're doing something about it.

One of the things we're doing is asking for help. And we're getting that help from International Harvester in the form of improved training and service techniques. As part of our commitment to the logging, mining and construction industries, we've also evaluated our operations, parts inventories, organization and people. We've updated and improved our stock of International' equipment. We've made changes front to back, bottom to top.

We're starting new, starting now. And we're here to stay.

Here comes CAE equipment.
