Wings still looking for first WHL win

SEATTLE (CP) — Kelowna Wings continued to search for their first win of the Western Hockey League season following a 5-1 loss Tuesday to Seattle Breakers.

The Wings have now dropped all four of their games, while the Breakers, in their first home win of the season, saw their record go to 2-2.

Veteran centre Dave Curry opened the scoring for Seattle just 1:49 into the game. The Breakers went up 2-0 in the second period when Alan Kerr scored on a pass from Curry. The Wings' Stewart

Wenass scored a minute later to put Kelowna behind by one. But the Breakers' Ward Carlson restored Seattle's two-goal margin when he beat Kelowna goalie Darcy Wokaluk with less than two minutes left in the period.

The final period was all Seattle, as 15-year-old Craig Andean and veteran Terry Sargent each scored power-play goals, Sargent's with 11 seconds left in the game.

Wokaluk turned back 29 shots for Kelowna, while Rex Grant made 20 saves for Seattle.
